

This photograph by Vytautas Babelis captures a scenic view of Venice, Italy, from an elevated perspective. The composition highlights the winding canal lined with classic Venetian buildings, their earthy tones and red-tiled roofs basking in warm sunlight. Boats and gondolas dot the water, adding a sense of movement and activity to the tranquil setting. There is an intriguing overlay of light patterns or reflections across the image, which lends a dreamy, nostalgic feel, as though viewing the scene through a layer of glass or film. The atmospheric effect enhances the timeless charm of Venice, blending reality with an almost surreal quality.

Melissa Fandos